WellStone provides counseling services for students facing behavioral, emotional, cognitive or crisis management issues. Our school-based counselors collaborate with parents, teachers and school administrators on all treatment plans. Counseling services are provided at school, which means getting help is easier for everyone.

WellStone's school-based therapists help students and their families make new break-throughs every day.

We provide services for over 1,500 students in 60+ schools across North Alabama each year.

If your student struggles with social skills, academic performance, emotional or behavioral issues, we can help.

- Behavioral problems
- Difficulty with social skills
- Relational conflict with others
- Difficulty with concentration & attention
